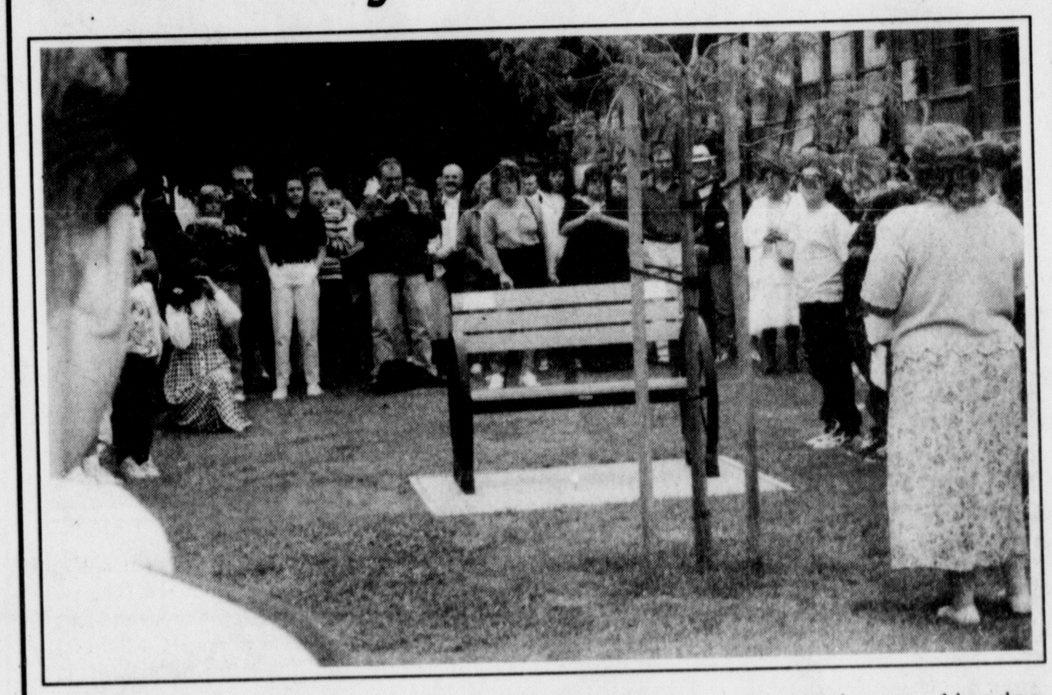
Kimberly's bench



The classmates and teachers of late elementary school student Kimberly Fuller met on Thursday, June 11 after the Westmore Oaks Elementary School fifth grade promotion ceremony to dedicate a bench and plaque in her memory. Kimberly, the daughter of Aaron and Janet Donnelly of West Sacramento and Leon Fuller of San Pablo, was an honor student at Westmore Oaks.

She was the victim of an accidental shooting a year ago.

The bench and plaques were placed beside the tree which was planted on the playground of the school in her memory last fall. The money for the bench and tree was raised by her class and the Student Council by selling Otter Pops and Westmore Oaks Dragon Pins.

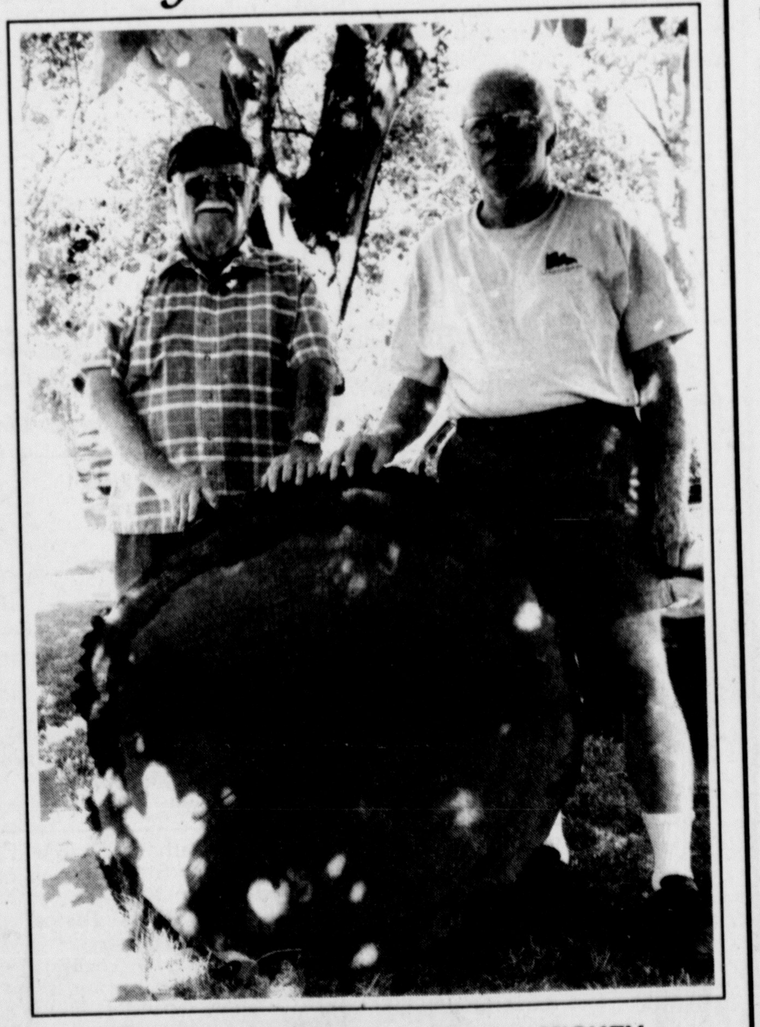
The students would like to thank Loren Alander, Danny Valencia, Terry Allee, Barry Blacklaw, Ed Yeargin and Mr. and Mrs. David McDaniel who assisted in the laying of the concrete pad for the placement of the bench; Supply Hardware who donated the concrete; Sacramento Redwood who donated the redwood border; and Port Engraving Company, who donated the plaques and engraving.

Rings of history

ROBERT FAUSETT and his son MICKEY FAUSETT of West Sacramento have salvaged a "tree ring" from one of the oak trees near 5th St. which recently came down to make way for street widening and improvements at that site. The tree this ring came from is estimated to be 150 years old.

"The people from the construction company were nice enough to cut three pieces for us," said Mickey Fausett. "We're going to take this oak and mark the tree rings. For example, my grandfather was born in Yolo in 1883, so we could put a pin in the tree ring (which corresponds to) that year. The historical society invites other people to contribute significant dates also."

Fausett, who is active in the West Sacramento Historical Society, can be reached at 372-5036, or by e-mail at "mickeysac@aol.com".



ROBERT FAUSETT and his son, MICKEY

"From the way these trees were lined up next to the street, they were probably planted," Fausett speculated.

"They would probably go back to the 1840s ahd 1850s."

Wind causes plague of power outages for West Sac

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

About 3,000 West Sacramento PG&E customers were without power yesterday afternoon as high winds swept the Sacramento region, a PG&E spokeswoman said Tuesday. Workers were at work late Tuesday trying to restore the power, and most customers had their power restored by Tuesday evening.

At about 1:41 p.m. Tuesday, power went out to 2,462 customers in the major West Sacramento power outage site.

"That was the area south of Merkley Ave. to Stone Blvd., and from Cebrian St. east to Jefferson Blvd.," reported Lisa Randle of utility provider PG&E. At least one major tree branch was visible against a power line and city trucks were re-routing traffic on part of Park Blvd. in connection with that outage, although more detailed information was not available from authorities.

One resident reported that this power outage was caused by branches of an oak tree on the 1500 block of Park Blvd. falling across two high voltage power lines. PG&E repairmen engaged tree trimmers working nearby to cut the branches. Meanwhile, city workers re-routed traffic from that part of southbound Park Blvd. for safety. Power was restored to most customers by 4:30 p.m., said the resident. PG&E spokesperson Randle said that all but 138 of the customers had their power restored as of 7:30 p.m.

A second outage area of 337 customers began at 2:30 p.m.

"That was an area east of Glide Ave., from the Southern Pacific railroad south to Merkley Ave.," said Randle.

Power was supposed to be restored by midnight, Randle said.

A third area, north of Lisbon and Lighthouse Dr. and east of I-80, near the Sacramento River, was hit by a power outage at about 4:06 p.m., leaving 18 customers without power. The cause was identified as multiple fuse failures, said Randle, who did not have an estimate for when the power would be restored.

The company was battling "wind related" outages throughout much of the region, Randle said. "Causes range from a circuit unit having tripped due to lines touching each other, to tree branches in contact with a line, or maybe a fallen tree or an equipment failure that causes a line to drop."

At least one West Sacramento resident outside of the areas described above also reported a local power outage.

About Town:

Rudy Jakosa: longtime educator

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

Rudy Jakosa's father arrived in America shortly after World War One. He was a member of the Yugoslavian merchant marine, but rather than return to the old country, he decided to jump ship in San Francisco and make a new life for himself.

"My father worked up and down the central valley until he was finally able to save up enough money to send for my mother," recalled Rudy. "Then they moved to Chicago because there was a large slavic community there."

Rudy has very fond memories of growing up on the famous southside of Chicago.

"We lived only a few blocks from old Comisky Park, the home of the Chicago White Sox," remembered Rudy. "They've torn it down now, but when I was a teenager, I used to work at the ballpark. I even got to see Joe DiMaggio play in the 53rd game of his famous 56-game hitting streak."

The southside of Chicago was good to Rudy in a number of other ways, too. "Chicago was full of ethnic neighborhoods back then," said Rudy, "and I didn't even speak English when I started school. Plus the block I lived on happened to separate the white and black sections of the city. So I learned early in life about tolerance and getting along with others, and growing up on the southside of Chicago was truly a wonderful experience for me and my two brothers."

The Army sent Rudy to Sacramento in the early years of World War Two and that is where he met Barbara, his wife of almost 52 years now. "My brother had a dance band," recalled Barbara, "and Rudy and I met at the USO Club. When Rudy left to go overseas, we continued to correspond and when he came home from the war, we got married."

BARBARA and RUDY JAKOSA

Rudy was a member of the Army Signal Corps and he served in Guadalcanal, the Philippines and Japan. "The war kind of scattered everyone," said Rudy, "but with the help of the GI Bill, I went to college and decided to become a teacher."

In 1949, Rudy did his student teaching at the old Washington Elementary School and by 1952 he was the principal at the newly constructed Elkhorn Village Elementary School in Bryte. "I was lucky enough to be a part of the Washington Unified School District almost from the start," said Rudy. "I was there when they built all the new schools and was part of a very orderly plan to bring quality education to West Sacramento. Not only did I get to teach and be a principal, but I was also a curriculum coordinator and an assistant superintendent for instruction. Getting to wear all those hats was a lot of fun and also very rewarding. My wife and I have each spent more than 30 years in public education, and we have enjoyed those years immensely."

Rudy retired from WUSD in 1983 and Barbara did likewise in 1985. Although they have both stayed active in our local schools through substitute teaching, they have spent much of the past 15 years traveling extensively. "One of our favorite activities has been attending Elderhostels all over the country," said Barbara. "They are classes given by different Universities and we've studied Indian culture in Arizona, archeology at the Smithsonian in Washington, D.C. and just about everything in-between. We also enjoy spending as much time as possible with our two sons and our daughter. We're both very proud of the fact that we now have seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren."

Rudy and Barbara have recently received some difficult to accept news. "Rudy has always been blessed with good health," said Barbara, "but during an examination it was discovered that he had spots on his lungs. The doctor gave him some powerful antibiotics and we all hoped that would clear up the problem. Unfortunately, it didn't, and we have now learned that Rudy has fourth stage renal cell carcinoma. What that actually means is that Rudy has cancer of the kidney, lungs and liver, and although it's not something that can be operated on or cured, it can be treated, and Rudy is presently taking daily injections of the cancer fighting drug interferon."

"As you can imagine," said Rudy, "no one wants to get news

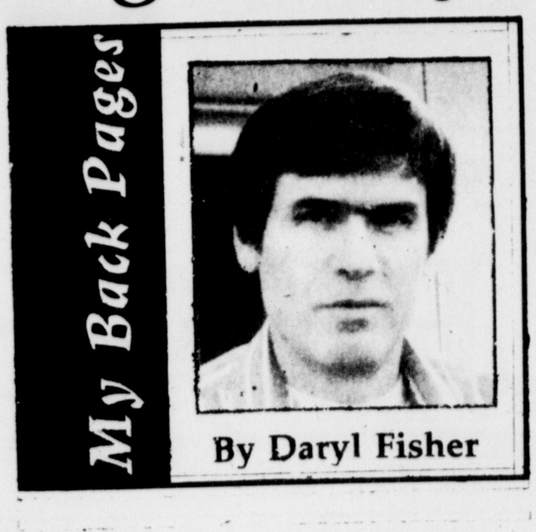
Why is it so tough to say 'I love you' to your father?

Editor's note: The following column first appeared in the News-Ledger on Father's Day, 1994.



By Daryl Fisher

I wonder why it is so many of us have such great difficulty telling those closest to us that we love them? And why is it fathers and sons seem to run into this particular problem with more regularity than just about anyone else?

With Father's Day just around the corner, I was talking to a friend the other morning about these and other questions. He explained to me that he had what he considered to be a pretty normal relationship with his dad.

"We talk about the weather, fishing, Joe Montana's elbow, stuff like that," he said.

"Nothing more serious?" I asked him.

"Naw," he said. "The last real deep talk my dad and I had was when I was a teenager and he was trying to explain the birds and the bees to me. That went so bad we both more or less agreed not to talk about anything too serious ever again."

Later that evening, I received a call from my friend and he said, "Daryl, I think I gotta solution to your problem."

"Which one?" I asked.

"You know, the one with your dad."

"I don't have a problem with my dad," I said. "It's just that I kinda wish we...."

"Look," he interrupted, "this year, instead of sending him another one of those Father's Day cards that your wife picks out for him, why don't you get brave and tell him you love him -- and do it in that newspaper column you've been writing."

"Are you kidding?" I asked. "He'd die if I did that. I'd die if I did that."

"I'll tell you what," he said. "If you fess up to the way you feel about your dad, come Father's Day, I'll do the same."

"Oh no you won't," I said. "I know you better than that. Either you or your dad is going to have to be at death's door before either one of you even lets on like you like each other."

There was a lengthy pause -- then a deep, throaty laugh. "You're right," said my friend, "but I bet I've talked you into writing a Father's Day column."

My father is retired now, but for almost 40 years he worked at the old Southern Pacific Railroad shops in downtown Sacramento. As a kid, I was never really exactly sure what he did there, but it had something to do with fixing big train locomotives, and I was pretty sure it was probably one of the best jobs in the world.

He would leave for work a lot earlier than I left for school, and he came home late in the afternoon, tired and not very talkative. He'd eat dinner, usually watch a couple of TV shows (Bonanza, Red Skelton, Jackie Gleason and the Phil Silvers and Ed Sullivan shows were among his favorites) and then go to bed early because he had to be up at the crack of dawn. His job was important to him and he rarely missed a day's work (maybe seven or eight in all those 40 years).

The days fathers and sons spend together blend into each other, but there are a few moments which stand out. Like the time he took me to see the Sacramento Solons play the Portland Beavers at old Edmonds Field. To this day, I have never seen a more thrilling baseball game. It was a masterful pitchers duel, with neither team able to score a run until Harry Bright (my favorite Solon) finally hit a long home run over the left field fence with two men out in the bottom of the twelfth inning, to win the game for the Solons.

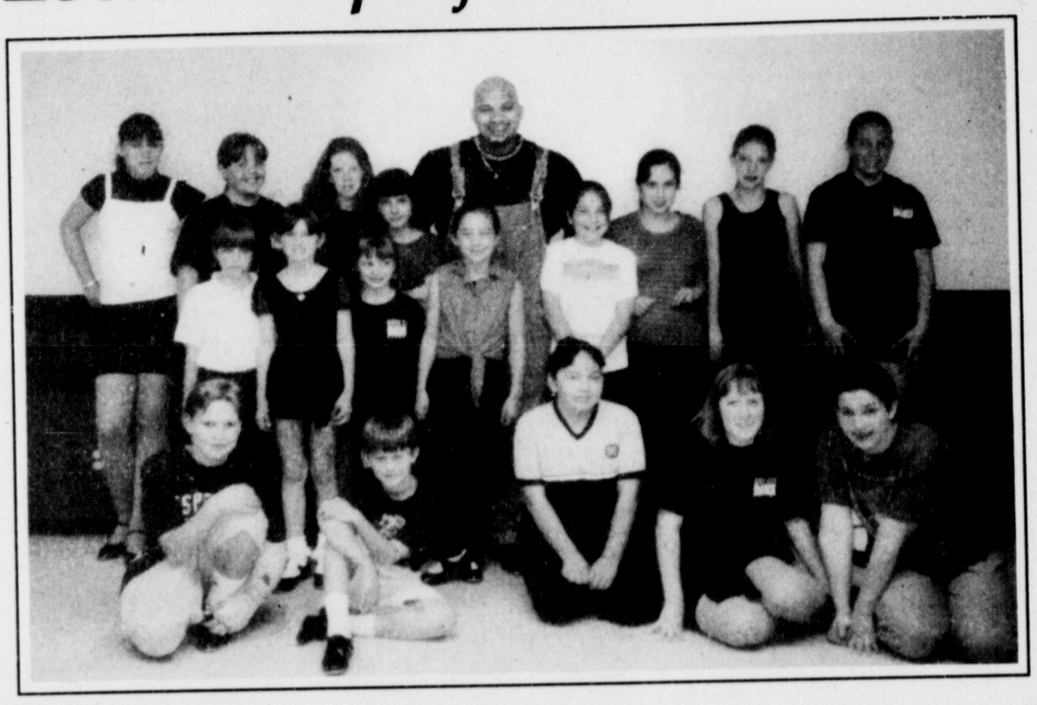
My father isn't a big baseball fan and I'm sure he had taken me to the game more as a favor than anything else. As he and I and a handful of loyal Solon fans filed out of the stadium, I asked him if he had ever seen such an exciting game.

"I'm glad you enjoyed it," he said, "but exciting? We sat there for five hours and they score one run between the two of them. What the hell is exciting about that?"

So, like most fathers and sons, my dad and I haven't spent all of our days together on the same page, but he's always been there when I needed him, made sure I had all the things the other kids had, and hugged me tighter than anyone else when I left for Vietnam.

So, happy Father's Day, Dad. I love you, and I wanted to mention it, "in the living years".

Locals to perform



On Sunday, June 21, students from West Sacramento's River City Dance Academy will perform two shows at Hiram Johnson High School in Sacramento. The shows are scheduled for 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. in the theater auditorium at the school. Pictured above are students from the studio under the direction of Tirza Warren, Kristi Matsunami, Cheryl Cook and Kimberly Bouzard. The public is welcome to attend as admission is free. Call the studio for more details at 371-2016.

Coach names top RCHS lifters

From River City High School

As the 1998 school year comes to a close, the River City High School weightlifting program honored its top lifters. Strength and conditioning coach Chris Baker beamed with pride as he recognized his 1998 "Magnificent Seven" and "New School Record" medalists:

Calvin Bell. "Calvin is a graduating senior and 3-year member of our program. He was a back-to-back 'Powerlifter of the Year' winner and 2-time 'Magnificent Seven.' He was such an intense competitor."

Justin Deed. "Justin was our 'Open Division Powerlifter of the Year.' In addition, he broke our Behind-the-Neck school record with a 220 lb. lift. Justin was a 3-year member of the program."

Marty Trevino. "Marty was our squat specialist. He broke our school record several times before settling for 615 lbs. In addition, he broke our Nor Cal record with an 850 lb. total. I think it will be some time before his records are broken."

Barry Golden. "Barry was a solid all-around lifter. He was a 2-year 'Magnificent Seven' recipient and a 3-year member of the program."

Sara Shoop. "Sara made a major impact in a short period of time. It only took her a year to claim the 'Open Division Powerlifter of the Year' and break the dip record with .28."

Alicia Brown. "Alicia won the 'Strength-to-Weight Powerlifter of the Year' Division. She established herself as an outstanding competitor."

Sam Chhun. "Sam was a 'Magnificent Seven' medalist who contributed a solid three years to our program."

Dominique Alpers. "Dominique has made giant strides the second half of the year. He rebounded from an ankle injury to capture a 'Magnificent Seven' medal."

Dolphins' home opener Saturday

The West Sacramento Dolphins Swim Team will be holding their first dual home meet of the season against the Manor Recreation Minnows this coming Saturday at the River City High School pool. The meet starts at 8 a.m. and all are welcome.

Sports Insider

By Richard Novoa

Michael Jordan led his Chicago Bulls to their sixth NBA title in eight years with a dramatic 45-point performance over the Jazz in game six. Jordan's last second shot lifted the Bulls to an 87-86 victory over the stunned Utah crowd. One statistic that I found interesting in the Bulls' six NBA championships is that they have never had to play a seventh and deciding game in their best of seven series. In 1990-91 championship, the Bulls beat the Lakers 4 games to 1. The next five championships were won with the exact same series results - 4 games to two! Michael Jordan was fantastic and will definitely go down in history as the greatest player to ever play the game of basketball.

Great news for Sacramento Kings fans! The Kings, who have been waiting for two years to sign their 14th pick in the 1996 draft, have signed a three year contract with the 21-year-old, 6-foot-9, 229 pound, guard/forward, Predrag "Peja" Stojakovic. Peja, who will start in Mitch Richmond's position, was named the 1998 European League MVP. The kid can flat out play basketball! Maybe the Kings will sign free-agent center Valdi Divac to help him adjust to his new NBA life in the USA.

The Giants had won 11 games in a row last week before heading toward San Diego for their weekend showdown with the Padres. Well, a funny thing happened on the way to San Diego. The Giants and the Seattle Mariners got into a beaning war the day before that left the Giants limping into the seasons biggest series of the year! The Giants lost the services of Jeff Kent for 15 days due to a knee injury and Barry Bonds and Orel Hershiser were both injured. The Padres swept the series before three sold out crowds, to take over first place in the Western Division. The Giants, who trail the Padres by 3 games, will need to circle the wagons this week because the Padres will be in town for a four game series starting on Thursday, June 25. On Monday, June 22, the Giants and A's will tangle in the first game of the "Bay Bridge" four game series. The first two games will be played in Oakland and then the series will move to 3Com Park on June 24 and 25.

The USA World Cup soccer team had a very poor showing against the powerful German team, losing 2-0 on Monday night in Paris. The Americans looked nervous and it showed in the ninth minute of the game, when defender Mike Burns allowed the ball to enter the goal under his arm pit. Germany and Brazil will be the teams to beat. The USA is now faced with not only beating Iran and Yugoslavia to advance to the second round, but must score more goals that their opponents in the case of a tie in points. The winners of the first round games receive three points. A tie is worth one point and a loss will get you a big zero! Iran lost to Yugoslavia 1-0 on Sunday. The USA plays Iran on Sunday, June 21 (ch.10 - noon) and Yugoslavia on Thursday, June 25 (ch. 10 - noon).

See ya next week!

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

A scattering of comments

You may have noticed that people get meaner when they are anonymous.

We are, as a race, more likely to be rude to a retail clerk over the phone than when we are when face to face across the counter. We are more likely to swear at someone or carry on aggressively from behind a car window in traffic than we would ever consider doing were we to meet the same victim face to face, in the traffic of shopping carts in the local supermarket.

The same phenomenon applies to expressing an opinion in the local newspaper.

By far the meanest and nastiest opinions the News-Ledger receives come from folks who do not have the decency and courage to leave their names. They either drop off an anonymous letter of venom, usually attacking some more respectable member of the community, or call in a 'Sound Off!' message in the expectation that we would print it. Were they to leave their names, in a signed letter to the editor, they would surely take a moment to check the reasonableness of their thoughts or temper the extremeness of their spite. But there is some component of common decency which is missing from them and which prevents them from examining themselves.

People who choose to spread this kind of negative nonsense often use an anonymous forum to attack people who have the courage and willingness to enter the public discussion openly. The anonymous ones, lacking the same courage, feel that they have some kind of right to sit in the dark and throw stones at those who more properly use the democratic process. And they do so knowing that by preserving their own anonymity, no one will be able to hold them responsible for the things they say in the way in which they are trying to hold others responsible. But they are wrong to think they are in any way superior to those they criticise.

No one who enters the public discussion on the News-Ledger's pages should have to suffer an attack by someone else who refuses to take responsibility for his or her comments. For this reason, the News-Ledger does not allow unsigned letters to the editor and screens the 'Sound Off!' calls to weed out the anonymous stone-throwers and protect those who care enough to sign their names.

Opinions are welcome here. Mindless, unfair venting is not.

It's a very safe bet that the West Sacramento City Council will not approve its agenda item #12, a resolution supporting Sacramento's flood control efforts, as written. You heard it here first.

But actually, it's an easy call. The resolution refers to the flood bill's author as "Senator Robert Matsui," which should come as a surprise to the staff of Congressman Robert Matsui, D-Sacramento.

So you see, it's not only local newspapers that fall prey to the villainous "typo."

Is it true, Marino Pierucci, that when a wind as unrelenting and unnerving as the one which tousled up West Sacramento yesterday blows through Italy, those convicted of a crime while the wind blows may expect lenient sentences from a justice system which knows how maddening such a wind can be?

Guest Commentary:

Award-winning essay: 'A Hope for the Future'

The City of West Sacramento recently sponsored a contest with the theme of community pride. Following is the second-place winner in the essay contest, written by Rishi Sharma, a member of the River City High School Class of '98. Sharma was the school's commissioner of internal affairs on the student council, served as editor-in-chief of the school newspaper, and is a former city youth commission member.

By Rishi Sharma
River City High School

John awoke. He looked at the clock. It read 9:00 a.m. He should have been at school, but he didn't care enough to get there on time. There on the floor of his room were the red shirt and black pants he had discarded the night before. It didn't matter if they were dirty, in his closet hung three more pairs of the same outfit. He might have had them washed when his mother yelled at him, but she wouldn't do that until she got sober again, and that could take days. If he had a father, he might have cared, but he split before John descended his mother's ovarian canal. So, there he sat. John the cholo, John the wannabe, in the middle of his messy room.

A mile away, the second period teacher took roll. Without surprise, she marked in the absent bubble for John. The third day that week. The thirteenth day that quarter. She thought to herself, "There is no way he is going to pass." Then her thoughts switched to those children who have a future, and the lesson began.

When John was in elementary school, he actually liked school. He still remembered his first grade teacher: Mrs. Channing, a sweet, patient old woman who considered her students as her own children. But Mrs. Channing could only care for students like John from 8:00 to 3:00. When the last bell of the day rang, John and the other twenty-eight students in his class were left to themselves. John could go home, but why? He might see another man walk out of his mother's bedroom or hear the swish of a bottle's contents as the last drink is taken down or see the mailman deliver this month's welfare check.

No, John didn't want to hear these sounds again. He could go to the park. There were kids who "cared" about him. There were kids who would watch after him no matter what happened. There were people who did fun things. So, it was there John spent his afternoons, and it was there on the tottering swing set that John lost his future; but John was a child, he didn't know he was losing his future, and no one looked hard enough to see that it was running away.

Maybe if there had been someone to tell John his future was running away; maybe if there were somewhere John could go after school; maybe if there was someone who cared what John did after 3:00 p.m., John's future wouldn't have died. But there wasn't. The year was 1986, and no one -- not the county, not his parent, not his family -- did anything to stop John from killing his future.

Now, in 1998 John sits on his bed while Todd, a little boy who lives across the street, is at school. Todd has Mrs. Channing as a teacher, too. She is the same person. She cares for her students like they were her children, but at 3:00 p.m., they enter another world where she has no place. Yet, this time, things are different. Todd doesn't go to a deserted park after school; he goes to the school cafeteria.

There he sits with thirty other kids: playing, drawing, thinking, dreaming, and developing in ways he can never develop at home with an apathetic mother and an incarcerated father. When he goes home to his torn house, he isn't broken like every other member of his family. He is complete because someone stopped his future from running away. Todd's future was saved by a city that cared. Todd's future was saved by the greatest improvement in the City of West Sacramento since its incorporation 11 years ago.

Before incorporation, few or no programs existed for children who were not interested in athletics. Today, however, the city provides a variety of programs for young people, including After-school Adventure, Kids Involved During the Summer, and aquatic and recreational sports programs. These programs have provided the children, the future of West Sacramento with a safe place to socialize and play, away from the harm of the streets, or in some cases, homes and families.

The City of West Sacramento has become a bud that promises to bloom into a beautiful rose. Increased fire protection, more police officers, beautiful parks, and better service are among the reasons for this success; however, these solutions by City Hall primarily deal with short term issues. Children's programs, on the other hand, solve long-term problems. By helping to nurture strong, healthy and productive children, the city is helping to alleviate problems in the short term, such as children with nothing to do, and long-term problems like crime and accidents caused by negligence or ignorance.

Recent studies (including one published in Newsweek) have shown that children are more likely to get into trouble and cause mayhem in the hours after school and during the summer when no one is there to supervise them. City programs have helped to alleviate these dangerous conditions, improving children and the community as a whole. This is the largest improvement in the City of West Sacramento since incorporation in 1987.

Broken trust

Recently after a chain of events, I am reminded how dependent we are on our means of transportation and the trusted position of the persons asked to repair our automobile.

By learning the hard way, here are some words of advice. Beware of persons who offer to work on your car as a favor, because when a friendship ends they may decide to take apart the work they did earlier. Make sure when you leave your car keys to your car, the key is secure with a trustworthy mechanic.

After having my car worked on three times for the same problem, once by a so-called friend, (it was) dismantled when the friendship ended. Repaired by a mechanic, then again repaired for the same problem with additional cost. One day later stolen by key entry. Recovered and returned by towing, with the original problem, my bank account short $150, and my mind in disbelief.

Cinco de Mayo

To answer Vicky Rubalcava's slant on Cinco de Mayo (River City High School Review newspaper, printed with the News-Ledger June 3). To quote the Mexican Embassy:

Mexico borrowed war funds from Spain, England and France. All then located in Veracruz for collection of debts. Funds fueled the "Mexican-American War" 1846-68 and a civil war. President Juarez in 1861 refused to repay debts. Spain and England accepted the loss and left. France still in Veracruz. With refusal of debt, it decided to expand its empire under Napolean III. The 7,000 French advanced and lost to 5,000 Mestizo and Zapotec Indians led by one Mexican General Zaragoza on 5 May 1862. The general and the Indians were later defeated by the French, who set up a puppet government with no other resistance. Quietly in 1867, the French returned President Juarez to power.

More private enterprise

RE: Overhouse's previous letter June 3; Hope Herr letter of June 10)

I hope the News-Ledger will back me up on the fact that my letter of June 23rd contained a misprint. In my original letter I wrote that Reagan policy freed business to HIRE (not fire) workers instead of paying 70 percent of their profits to the government. I find it amazing that the misprint of one word in a paragraph allows another to determine my mindset.

I don't believe in the "anything for a buck" philosophy. However, I don't confuse greed with profit or greed with the pursuit of profit. Profits are good and provide the means for all else. The pursuit of profit provides the incentive that encourages people to experiment, invent, and discover. This activity is what creates and provides jobs -- all at private expense.

I don't praise the rich, but neither do I vilify them or believe they need to be punished. Claiming that a CEO doesn't "work" as hard as a garbage collector is the same old Democratic theme that promotes class envy and pits Americans against Americans. By demonizing one segment of the population as having "benefited" unfairly, Democratic leaders lay the emotional groundwork for more and more wealth redistribution, which is ultimately their ticket to power.

Liberal Democrats believe a portion of everyone's income should be pooled in the government for the common good. As an added bonus they are willing to determine what amount should be pooled and also what is good.

It seems the GOP is comprised of three groups. 1) Those who wish to keep more of their own money. 2) Those who support their Constitutional rights and 3) Those who believe that abortion is either wrong or at the very least cheapens the value of life.

But there is at least a fourth group who believe that government is too big, way too expensive and has never been the solution to any social problem. I don't believe it should be "every man for himself" or the politically correct term, every person for themself. What I wrote was that you must provide for yourself, for only then can you help others. There will always be people who truly need help and compassion. America is not the place, and I am certainly not willing to let these people go unaided. However, it is not compassionate to help those people who do NOT truly need help. Whether you mean to or not hat you are saying is "Pal, you can't do it on your own, you need me." "Here is your free ticket to poverty and you can get one every month." Compassion needs

The week in local government

A meeting of the West Sacramento Planning Commission will take place on Thursday, June 18, at 6 p.m. in city council chambers, 2101 Stone Blvd. Agenda items include the following:

Zoning administrator actions.

Public hearing/approval of a one-year extension to an approved Vesting Tentative Subdivision Map No. 4121 (Southport Gateway Project), to allow additional time for recording of a Final Map.

Public hearing/approval of a modification to the conditions of a previously approved use permit for the 65-foot-tall freeway information sign at the southeast corner of Harbor Blvd. and Evergreen Ave., to allow a 2-month extension and redesign of the sign structure.

Public hearing on the approval of a Conditional Use Permit for a 65-foot-high multi-user freeway identification sign. The sign would be approximately 625 feet north of US 50. The project would be located approximately 225 feet from the intersection of Harbor Blvd. and Evergreen Ave. on the northeast corner of the site.

The West Sacramento City Council will hold a meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in council chambers, 2101 Stone Blvd. Agenda items include the following:

Presentation of proclamation honoring Rick Duran for service as a member of the Housing Advisory Commission.

Consideration of plans and specifications and authorization to solicit bids for the Jefferson Blvd. Emergency Vehicle Preemption Systems Project.

Consideration of appropriation of additional funds for the annual restripping program.

Consideration of an extension and amendment to an existing contract with Pacific Relocation Consultants.

Consideration of revised salary schedule for the position of Civil Engineer.

Consideration of award of contract for the publication of legal ads to the West Sacramento Press for the 98-99 fiscal year.

Consideration of docking agreement with Raley's, assignment of docking agreement to waterfront area visitor and entertainment services and presentation of the status of the River Otter Taxi Company.

First reading of ordinance amending chapter of the municipal code related to speed limits on certain city streets and first reading of ordinance decreasing the speed limits on certain city streets.

Continued discussion and adoption of resolution amending the general plan from community commercial to medium density residential, and first reading of ordinance amending the West Sacramento Zoning Map from C-2 to R-2 and amending the Pheasant Hollow Development Agreement.

Consideration of resolution, the official position on federal legislation authorizing Sacramento area flood control authority project.

A public hearing will be held at approximately 6:30 p.m. on June 23 at a meeting of the Yolo County Board of Education, in the Woodland Room of the Conference Center, located at 1240 Harter Avenue, Woodland, for the purpose of receiving comments from any interested parties regarding the 1998-99 final county school service fund budget.

RODNEY OVERHOUSE
West Sacramento

Editor's Note: Alas, we do not still have the original of Mr. Overhouse's letter from June 3. But Mr. Overhouse's intention seems clear enough, and in the event that the News-Ledger misprinted a key word in his last letter, an apology is offered.

Flood control

On June 10 at the West Sac City Council meeting much of the time was consumed discussing flood control for both sides of Sacramento River, including use of Yolo Bypass and the backing of improvement of Folsom Dam (installing lower level release valves, etc.) and raising the height of various levees. Reps from both sides of river expressed support for proposed legislation by Congressman Bob Matsui (and supported by Congressman Vic Fazio) for federal funding for most of this work as a more viable alternative to the (proposed) Auburn Dam, which would provide more protection from flooding and water shortage. But resistance from environmentalists and would-be-higher-costs have been the major stumbling blocks for such an Auburn Dam.

During that week we also learned that the land across from number One Capitol Mall has been approved for a large new hotel complex. More power to them; that's progress. But this writer wonders where the powers that be will relocate the horses and buggies which now make their home there much of the year. Will they try to make their home in West Sac even though their bright side (money-making side) is on the other side in Old Sac? If so, West Sac should at least tie it in with items such as continued permission allowing YoloBus to serve Sacramento International Airport (after the next year of the 2-year permit runs out). And to this day it has not been explained why West Sac residents must travel by bus to Downtown Sacramento as a first step to getting to or from West Sac's Industrial Park. Yes, we still need something like a Sutterville/Linden Roads bridge across the Sacramento River. And have both sides given up on Sacramento's desire to (save money by) to run a sewage (to treatment) line from Natomas to Elk Grove -- via West Sac -- in exchange for sharing the savings, etc. and letting West Sac. meet their future increased sewer treatment needs and share in the savings by also hooking up to the Elk Grove plant? If West Sac does not do something fairly soon, we will have used up our balance of sewage treatment capacity; hence, another building moratorium will fall into place...like what prevailed until we built that second bridge to our Southport area. (A most ideal plan would include also include Light Rail service in our future.) Time to put the pieces of our puzzles together, folks...get the picture(s)?

Learn how to find a job

From Yolo County Community Partnership Agency

The "how to" of finding employment is the general subject of a series of free, brown-bag lunch workshops now being offered by the Yolo County Community Partnership Agency through June.

The 30-minute workshops, held on various Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 12:15 to 12:45 p.m. in the Employment Center at the Community Partnership Agency offices in West Sacramento, are designed to provide pertinent, job-search information to the general public in a concise, helpful format surrounded by a comfortable setting. Topics of the free series include "Getting Started," "The Hidden Job Market," "Interviewing for Success," and "The Job Search Package." The Yolo County Community Partnership Agency is located at 500-A Jefferson Blvd. in West Sacramento.

"Getting Started" is the mini-workshop topic Thursday, June 11. "The Hidden Job Market" is set for Wednesday, June 17, followed by "The Job Search Package," Thursday, June 19. "The Job Search Package" will be offered again on Monday, June 22. "Interviewing for Success" will be presented Tuesday, June 23, and "The Hidden Job Market" will be repeated Wednesday, June 24.

Persons wishing to register to attend any or all of the free mini-workshops or who wish to request more information should call the Yolo County Community Partnership Agency at 375-6300.

like this, and the first couple of months were very difficult, especially on Barbara. But I'm doing what the doctors tell me to do, and at the present time I feel pretty good. The worst part is that I get tired very easily and I can't do all the things I would like to do."

"It's at times like this that you realize how many wonderful people live in West Sacramento," said Barbara. "Our family and friends, and the church we belong to, have all been so incredibly supportive, and we've been overwhelmed by all the cards and calls we've received. We both want to take this opportunity to publicly thank everyone. You'll never know how important everyone's support and kindness has been to us."

"I go for some more tests later this week," said Rudy, "and I'm interested to see if the interferon has helped any. But either way, I'm not dwelling on any of this." Then he smiled and added, "Us guys from the southside of Chicago are tough, you know."

"So many people love Rudy," said Barbara, "and there's a good reason for it. He has spent his entire life trying to help others. We have had a wonderful marriage and I'm so glad he was at that USO Club way back in 1943."

The Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) could mean

$$$ your pocket

if you qualify!

The EITC is based on your earned income and the number of children you have living with you. If you don't have a child, you may still qualify for a limited EITC.

To claim the EITC on your 1997 tax return, you need income of less than:

- $29,290 – and two or more qualifying children,
- $25,760 – and one qualifying child, or
- $9,770 – and no qualifying children.

Remember: you, your spouse and your children must have Social Security numbers to get the EITC.

If you expect to qualify for the EITC in 1998, ask your employer about advance EITC payments. You could get part of the credit with your pay now, instead of waiting until after you file your 1998 tax return.

Ask the IRS or your tax professional about the EITC. You can call 1-800-829-3676 to get free IRS Publication 596, Earned Income Credit, or download IRS forms and publications from the Internet at www.irs.ustreas.gov.

Beware! False EITC claims could prohibit you from getting the credit for up to 10 years.

Regional learning center for seniors

Plans have been finalized for the first organizational meeting of Senior Learning Unlimited (SLU) at 4 p.m. on Thursday, June 18, in the Davis Senior center.

Sponsored by the UCD Davis Extension, SLU will be a program of classes for seniors, taught by seniors, with the curriculum determined by those taking classes and those leading classes. Anyone age 55 or over is invited to attend the organizational meeting.

"We already have received a large number of phone calls, which indicates that there is a good deal of interest in the program," says Jean Kauffman, co-chair of the membership and publicity committee. "We are looking forward to the opportunity to explain and discuss the various aspects of SLU and to answer questions."

The basic concept of SLU will be similar to senior programs now operating in more than 200 colleges and universities throughout the nation. Seniors are taught by their peers, and there are no exams or grades.

UCD Chancellor Lawrence Vanderhoef and Charles Lacey, dean of University Extension, will welcome those attending the meeting. Following introductions, the program format will be explained, and a short video, featuring participants and programs from existing senior colleges, will be shown. The meeting is expected to last from 4 to about 6 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

To involve prospective members in the initial planning, each attendee will be asked to fill out a simple questionnaire on curriculum, fee and scheduling preferences.

"We hope to get our classes going by fall," says Ralph Pomeroy, chairman of the curriculum committee, "so we need some preliminary idea of possible enrollment and probable instructors. At present, we anticipate that all classes will be held in daylight hours."

For further information, call (530) 752-9695. However, because of the heavy volume of calls, only those with specific questions can be returned. All seniors who have received an invitation by mail or through the Senior Center newsletter and who plan on attending need not respond.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF ELMA LORRAINE HENDERSON
CASE NUMBER P98000152

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of ELMA LORRAINE HENDERSON:

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by JENNIFER RAE JOHN in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo County.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that JENNIFER RAE JOHN be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests that the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on July 8, 1998, at 8:30 a.m., in Dept. 7, Room 103, at Superior Court of California, County of Yolo, 725 Court St., Woodland, CA 95695.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A "Request for Special Notice" form is available from the court clerk.

Kiwanis: a half a century

West Sacramento Kiwanis Club will celebrate its 50th year of service to the community with a dinner/dance on June 20 at the Moose Lodge, Jefferson Blvd. The club was chartered on July 26, 1948. Two of its Charter Members are still active in the club, Arne Andersen and Frank Smith, Jr.

The club has gained international recognition for its Kids Camping Project which treats boys and girls from the West Sacramento area for a week's camp out in the High Sierras. In its 50 years of service, Kiwanis has contributed over $205,000 on various projects to benefit children, seniors and the needy: Eye Care for Children, Boy & Girl Scouts, 4-H Club, College Scholarships, Food Baskets and the Kids Camp. Kiwanis has pledged to eliminate Iodine Deficiency in the underdeveloped countries of the world. The absence of iodine in diet is a major cause of mental retardation and physical handicaps in children. Working with the Morton Salt Company, Kiwanis has raised over 5 million dollars and has constructed 15 salt manufacturing sites in Africa, Asia and the Philippines. Club President Gordon Work said, "Our Kiwanis members thank the people of West Sacramento for their support of our fundraising events and the local businesses for their generous donations of services and money. As a result, Kiwanis can continue to serve the people of our community and the world."
